

The OHI is deeply concerned about the deterioration of environmental protection, sound land use planning, and legal rights in Ontario, and is dedicated to a new vision for watershed security in the province: revitalizing our approaches to watershed management, improving the integration of land use and watershed planning, and embracing a commitment to sustainable development.

As a result, we have recently:

- Revamped our website into a user-friendly portal, in which the latest Newsletter will always be first, while re-organizing our publications under new headings that are searchable;
- Harmonized all our digital platforms to support watershed security; and,
- Been crafting a fleet of publications and other initiatives to recruit Watershed Guardians, some of which are on the portal while others will be released between now and Labour Day.

Today, we invite you to take an 11 question, two-minute poll to help us gauge public perceptions about our watersheds, how they are managed, and watershed security. Responses will be confidential, and results shared around July 1.

You can access the poll here.
